Principal Areas of Practice:

- Commercial Law
- Health and Aged Care
- Retirement Villages
- Corporate Governance
- Charities and Not-for-Profit Structuring

Having previously been a partner in O'Loughlin Robertson (and its successor, Minter Ellison), Peter formed Myhill Partners, his own legal and consulting practice, in 1995. He joined O'Loughlins Lawyers as a partner in 2004 with the merger of the two practices. Peter retired as a partner to become a Consultant in July 2020.

Peter has legal and management expertise in commercial business activity generally and his specific expertise in aged care and retirement accommodation is nationally recognised. He has been recognised by his peers in this field by year on year inclusion in the 'Best Lawyers in Australia' list in the category of 'Retirement Villages and Seniors Living Law' and recognised as preeminent in Doyles Guide to Health and Aged Care lawyers. He also has had extensive involvement with charitable and not-for-profit organisations in structuring and managing their operations.

Peter's commercial legal experience includes logistics, health, transport and utility contracting, both public and private, as well as SME mergers and acquisitions.
